The Bogleheads Philosophy

The Bogleheads philosophy is based on the principles of index fund investing, low costs, and diversification. Index funds are passively managed funds that track a particular market index, such as the S&P 500. They offer a low-cost and efficient way to gain exposure to the stock market. Low costs are essential to long-term investment success. High fees and expenses can eat away at your returns over time. Diversification is the practice of spreading your investments across different asset classes, such as stocks, bonds, and real estate. This helps to reduce risk and improve your chances of long-term success.
