The Lost Secret of the Lost Starship 14 is a science fiction novel by American author James P. Hogan. The novel was first published in 1982 and is part of Hogan's "Giants" series. The novel tells the story of a group of scientists who discover a lost alien spaceship that contains a powerful energy source.

The novel begins with a group of scientists who are working on a new type of energy source. The scientists are led by Dr. Elizabeth "Liz" Lindstrom, a brilliant scientist who is determined to find a new way to power the world. The scientists are working on a new type of fusion reactor that they believe could be the key to solving the world's energy problems.

One day, the scientists are working on their new fusion reactor when they receive a strange signal. The signal is coming from a distant star system, and it is unlike anything the scientists have ever seen before. The scientists are intrigued by the signal, and they decide to investigate further.

The scientists follow the signal to a distant planet, where they discover a lost alien spaceship. The spaceship is buried underground, and it is clear that it has been there for many years. The scientists are amazed by the spaceship, and they begin to explore it.

Inside the spaceship, the scientists discover a powerful energy source. The energy source is unlike anything the scientists have ever seen before, and it could be the key to solving the world's energy problems. The scientists are excited by the discovery, and they begin to work on a way to harness the energy.

However, the scientists soon discover that the energy source is not without its dangers. The energy source is unstable, and it could explode if it is not handled properly. The scientists must work carefully to harness the energy, and they must be prepared for anything.

The scientists eventually succeed in harnessing the energy source, and they are able to use it to power the world. The world is now a cleaner and more sustainable place, and the scientists are hailed as heroes.
